Being Active Outdoors Makes Kids More Successful In School

If your children are like most kids, they are spending more time indoors than ever before. A 2010 Kaiser Family Foundation study found that children ages 8 to 18 engage in over seven hours of electronic media each day.

Some experts warn that all that time indoors can take a heavy toll on children's health, contributing to attention difficulties, hyperactivity, obesity, a diminished use of senses and even a disconnect from the real world.

"American children are losing a vital aspect of healthy development as they spend less time riding bikes, climbing trees or doing much of anything outdoors," says Kathy McGlaufflin, director of Project Learning Tree, a nonprofit organization that trains teachers to incorporate environmental education into school curricula. "Today, children spend most of their time indoors — largely because that's where all the electrical sockets are."

According to McGlaufflin, teaching children to understand and value nature is vital to raising the next generation of environmental stewards and even to improve children's performance at school.

How To Cure Nature A Deficit

Brainstorm with your children's teachers and principal about ways the school can incorporate learning in the outdoors and provide a healthier environment for students and staff that promotes ecological sustainability, reduces waste, and teaches students to be environmental stewards.

Have your child help sort the recycling at home. Visit the recycling center to see how it all works.

Talk to your child's teacher about applying for a Project Learning Tree GreenWorks! grant to help get started on building a school or community garden, starting a recycling program or restoring a nearby stream. Since 1992, Project Learning Tree has distributed nearly $1 million to fund 1,000 environmental service-learning projects in communities nationwide. Apply by September 30 by visiting www.plt.org/ApplyForaGrant.

Encourage your child to adopt a local tree and get familiar with it. Revisit this tree on a regular basis throughout the seasons, recording observations in a journal.

Take a walk through a local wooded area, park, or your own backyard. Observe wildlife and plant life, paying special attention to fallen logs to learn how decomposition works and get a better understanding of microhabitats. Look for signs of animals including insects and plants in, on or around the log.

Go for a bike ride around your neighborhood for exercise, quality time, and some fresh air.

Plant a garden together to improve your family's nutrition and create something meaningful. You'll diversify your meals with fresh local produce and teach your child about the life cycle of plants. Choose flowers that will attract an array of hummingbirds and butterflies to admire.

More tips can be found at www.plt.org.

Getting children outside is an important aspect of child development and can contribute to student achievement and a healthy lifestyle. This school year, be sure your child takes some time off from television, video games, and the Internet to explore the great outdoors.

Your Child's Vision!

School eye exams are only screenings and do not test for everything. They may test for distance vision in each eye separately, but do not test for near vision (reading) or how the two eyes work together as a unit. According to Prevent Blindness America, vision problems affect one out of every four school-age children. "If a child is struggling in school, it may well be an indication of a vision problem," says Dr. Joseph Young of Village Eye Care. Dr. Young tests for ocular problems that can impact learning and development. He also stresses the importance of proper eye movements, and the ability to read and comprehend. We have worked with many children whose reading and writing skills have greatly improved.

Another concern for parents is sports vision. According to Prevent Blindness America, there are 40,000 ocular sports related injuries per year. Dr. Young has many solutions for your "sports child", from contacts to REC SPECS Sports Eyewear.

Please visit our web site for more information, and we hope you see that an eye exam is part of "getting your child ready for a great school year!"

Keeping Kids Healthy At Home And School

BY SARAH SCINTO

The United States Department of Agriculture will introduce new health regulations this year, but children should also develop healthy eating habits outside of school when it comes time for their after-school snack.

More often than not, kids will crave junk foods when they hop off the bus and head into the house. But Newtown's Resident Dietitian Jill Patterson says there are ways to encourage your kids to reach for the carrot sticks instead of the cookies.

"What's important is making nutritious snacks easy and accessible," she said. Parents can place a bowl of fruit on the counter or rearrange the fridge and cabinets to bring healthy options to the front as easy steps to ensure kids will make the healthy choice.

But just what makes up a healthy snack? According to Ms Patterson, a snack is like a mini-meal. Whereas a full meal should include balanced portions of the five main food groups, a balanced snack includes portions of two of those food groups. It could contain a small amount of fruits and vegetables, fruit and dairy, vegetables and whole grains, fruit and protein, or any other combination.

Parents can make healthy snacks that children will enjoy by using two food groups. Ms Patterson suggested apple slices with peanut butter, a snack kebab made by sticking grapes and cheese cubes on pretzel sticks, and fruit with a yogurt dip.

"A lot of kids like snacks they can dip," she said.

Making healthy snacks can be half the battle. If kids are not used to eating healthy, especially after the summer months, making a switch can be difficult.

"We have to talk to kids about how eating healthy will help them now," Ms Patterson said. "They'll want to eat healthy if they know it will effect and help them achieve the goals they have now, not just in the long term."

Along with talking about healthy eating, parents can lead by example and take up healthy eating habits themselves. "Kids really watch what grown-ups are doing," Ms Patterson said. "Young kids especially take in the information and become excited about healthy eating."

Ms Patterson summed up three easy methods to encourage healthy after-school snacking habits at home: Make healthy food available at all times, lead by example, and be strategic by planning or preparing healthy snacks in advance and making sure they are the first things kids see when they come home from school.

Back To School Bus Safety Tips For Parents And Kids

A new school year means new routines. And if your child is one of the millions of kids who ride the school bus, you should be encouraged by US Department of Transportation statistics that cite it as the safest mode of transportation for children to get to and from school.

Nevertheless, riding the school bus safely does require children to be aware and follow specific safety procedures. That is why the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and Chuggington, the educational animated children's television program, have partnered to offer parents and children important school bus safety tips as part of the "Think Safe, Ride Safe, Be Safe!" traffic safety campaign. The national traffic safety campaign helps parents teach their children about National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's recommended pedestrian, school bus, bike, and car seat safety guidelines.

Sharing a few school bus safety tips from the "Think Safe, Ride Safe, Be Safe!" campaign with your children can make riding the school bus a safer experience.

Be especially careful around the "danger zone," which is ten feet in front, behind, and on each side of the school bus. To avoid this area, wait for the bus at least five giant steps away from the road.

Wait to board the school bus until the school bus driver shows it is safe to do so. Kids should board one at a time and use the handrails to go up and down the stairs.

Once on the school bus, students should go straight to their seats and remain sitting, facing the front of the school bus.

Look out for cars before getting off the school bus. Once off, take five giant steps away from the school bus.

Wait for the driver or crossing guard to signal it is safe to cross the street. Always look left-right-left to make sure no cars are coming before crossing the road.

Parents can go online with children and take the pledge to "Be Safe!" together at www.chuggington.com/safety. In addition to the pledge, families can access a safety game, activities, downloadable tip sheets, and a free traffic safety app.

By following the rules, both parents and children can help make getting to and from school each day safer for everyone.

All-Star Transportation Working On Transition Into Newtown

BY ELIZA HALLABECK

As the start of the 2012-13 school year approaches, All-Star Transportation Terminal Manager Ed Bryan said he and the rest of All-Star are working to make sure the transition to the company's oversight of transporting Newtown's students is as smooth as possible.

Newtown's All-Star Dispatcher Joan Baumgart said she is hoping to "make sure the whole thing runs as smooth as possible."

Mr Bryan and Ms Baumgart are both Newtown residents. Mr Bryan is also involved in town, as a member of the Inland-Wetlands Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals. Ms Baumgart previously worked as a bus driver in Newtown for 26 years, ten of which she spent as an owner-operator.

Mr Bryan said he feels extremely happy and lucky that Ms Baumgart applied and was hired as All-Star's dispatcher.

After being awarded the bid for the five-year contract in October 2011 to oversee education routes in town not covered by other contractors, All-Star Transportation began making preparations for the 2012-13 school year. The Torrington-based company's contract went into effect on July 1.

Mr Bryan and Ms Baumgart will be working out of offices at 31 Peck's Lane, where All-Star's nearly 50-bus fleet will also be stored and monitored by a security system.

Of All-Star's roughly 50 drivers, Mr Bryan said ten previously drove as owner-operators in the district, and others were substitute drivers for owner-operators or drove for MTM Transportation. Most of the drivers who are set to drive for All-Star, Mr Bryan said, are also residents of Newtown.

After the drivers were hired, Mr Bryan said each one was put through training, misses the bus or a bus breaks down. The average speed of the buses will also be tracked using the system.

Safety Tips

Mr Bryan said some things most people are unaware of concerning school buses include the fact that buses cannot have distracting stickers on the bus, like stickers that may remind drivers to stop when the bus is stopped with lights flashing and more. Even on higher volume roads, Mr Bryan said it is the law to stop for a school bus when the lights are flashing.

All-Star buses, Mr Bryan said, will also not be taking right on red turns, as part of an All-Star safety policy.

Ms Baumgart said one safety tip that is important for parents and students to remember is to not chase or drive after the bus if a child misses their stop. No bus, she said, can stop at an undesignated location.

Mr Bryan said he hopes to make everyone comfortable with the transition to All-Star overseeing bus routes in town.

He and Ms Baumgart also expressed hopes for the 2012-13 school year that could include helping the school district notice and spread awareness during bullying awareness month.

New Bus Company, New Bus Routes— How New Bus Routes Were Created For The 2012-13 School Year

BY ELIZA HALLABECK

The bus routes for the 2012-13 school year, printed in this supplement, were created and are being overseen by All-Star Transportation for the first time this year.

Since the Torrington-based company took over education routes in Newtown, previously overseen by owner-operators, for the start of its five-year contract July 1, preparations for the 2012-13 school year have been in full swing at 31 Peck's Lane, where the Newtown division of All-Star has found a home.

Ed Bryan, All-Star's terminal manager in Newtown, and dispatcher Joan Baumgart, along with the roughly 50 buses in All-Star's Newtown fleet, are based out of the company's offices on Peck's Lane.

Mr Bryan said the routes were first evaluated in preparation of All-Star's bid on the contract, and were then looked at in further detail by All-Star co-owner Richard Dufour. A computer program called Transfinder was used to establish the new bus routes, and Mr Dufour, Mr Bryan and Ms Baumgart then went over the routes.

Mr Bryan and Ms Baumgart are both residents in Newtown, and Ms Baumgart has a 26-year background in driving buses in town. Their combined knowledge, and Mr Dufour's experience with overseeing bus routes helped to perfect the routes over what the computer program had generated, according to Mr. Bryan.

This year marks the first time all of the buses used to transport children to school will be housed in a central location, and the routes reflect that change. Mr Bryan noted there is security in place to monitor the bus fleet.

As Mr Bryan told the Board of Education during a special meeting on July 18, the individual bus stops will mostly remain the same.

Mr Bryan said the intention when looking at the routes was to keep the process as close to the same as it has been in the past as possible, while "honing in the end product."

If parents have issues with bus stops, Mr Bryan said forms are available at each school to be filled out and submitted to All-Star.

The bus routes, supplied by All-Star for this publication, will also be available online. For more information about All-Star Transportation, visit AllStarTransportation.com.

Tech Tips To Prepare Students For The School Year

Preparing children for a new school year is no longer just about stocking up on pencils and notebooks. The face of education is changing, and a well-equipped student should know how to use new technology to personalize the learning experience and succeed in school.

“Digital resources and applications can stimulate and engage students by providing a more interactive learning experience,” says Dan Caton, president of McGraw-Hill School Education. “Some of the best digital learning tools personalize learning, adapt to children’s individual strengths and help them overcome unique challenges.”

While digital learning may come naturally to children, parents should get up to speed on technology as well to better understand how new tools and resources can help their children learn.

Back-To-School Tech Tips For Parents

Talk to your children and their teachers about what they want to accomplish this year and how they can use traditional and new learning tools to meet goals.

Encourage children to use computers and other web-enabled devices for more than just games and social media.

If you think books are the same as when you went to school, think again. New digital textbooks available for download through applications like iBooks2, allow you to highlight text, make notes, or search inside the book. You can even have your tablet device read the book to you. Learn how this technology works so you can keep up with your kids.

Some forward-thinking schools are using innovative programs like CINCH Learning, which makes the complete kindergarten through grade 12 math and seventh to twelfth grade science curricula accessible online. Programs like these go beyond the textbook, so talk to your children’s teachers to learn how to maximize the program’s interactive tools and games from home devices.

New subscription-based programs like the ONboard series from McGraw-Hill Education are providing students with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in advanced placement courses. Parents of high school students should encourage teens to take advantage of such study aids before senior year.

Pick a regular time each day dedicated to beefing up vocabulary, improving spelling, reading together, and just talking about new topics and ideas. The International Reading Association recommends giving children choices in what they read — browse the ever-growing selection of age-appropriate books and periodicals available for download to your eReader.

If you’re on a budget, do not stress. Not all technology will break the bank. In fact, with a bit of effort, you can find eReaders on sites like eBay for much less than retail cost. And as more devices come onto the market, prices will become even more affordable. Many public libraries offer access to computers so you can familiarize children with basic technology and a range of digital resources, such as free eBooks.

For more information on how digital technology is changing the way kids learn, visit www.mheonline.com.

School Nutrition Gets A Makeover

For the first time in nearly two decades, the federal government has issued new nutrition standards for meals served to America’s school children that will be effective for the 2012-2013 school year. These regulations are based on the most current Dietary Guidelines for Americans.

The Newtown Public Schools have been ahead of the curve in school nutrition with offering nutrient-rich foods including whole grains, lean sources of protein, unlimited helpings from fresh fruit and vegetable bars and low-fat and fat-free milk, according to Chartwells School Dining Services Resident Dietitian Jill Patterson, RD.

All lunches include five meal components: a meat or meat alternate such as yogurt; lean beef, chicken or low-fat cheese; a grain such as whole wheat bread or brown rice; a fruit selection including an array of fresh fruits, dried fruit, or canned fruit in natural juice; raw or cooked vegetables in a variety of colors; and low-fat white, fat-free white or fat-free chocolate milk selections.

The new regulations mean Newtown students will see some changes in the foods served in the school cafeteria this year. Chartwells School Dining Services manages the food service department at Newtown Public Schools and has made strides in incorporating several positive initiatives that will allow for a smooth transition to the new meal requirements.

One major adjustment for students will be that their meal must include at least half of a cup of a fruit or vegetable to be considered a complete meal. Other changes, which are already in progress, include incorporating more whole grains, a limit on bread and protein servings, and a reduction in fats and sodium.

To encourage students to include a vegetable or fruit with their meal, Chartwells offers a variety of fruits and vegetables from fruit and vegetable bars. With the purchase of a school meal, the company allows students to take extra servings of fruits and vegetables at no additional charge. Chartwells will also be adding fruit and vegetable offerings at the cashier stations, so there will be many opportunities for students to include a fruit and/or vegetable with their meal.

The new United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) regulations include requirements for minimum and maximum protein and grain content — at least half of the grains must be whole grain rich — specific requirements for fruits and vegetables to ensure a variety of nutrients coming from different types of fruits and vegetables, legumes, and one percent and fat-free milk.

New Regulations Being Met

To increase fruit and vegetable consumption, Chartwells will offer a large variety of nutrient-dense fruits and vegetables, including dark greens, orange starchy vegetables, and legumes. Colorful fruits and vegetables provide essential vitamins and minerals important for growth and development during childhood, and students will be required to select at least a half of a cup of fruit or vegetable for their meal to be considered a complete meal or will be charged individual item prices.

To provide the allowable grains and proteins, Chartwells menus will offer specific amounts of whole grains and proteins that meet the new requirements. For some breads and meats, students might see smaller portions. Chartwells offers a variety of whole grains, like a proprietary whole-grain pizza crust called Pizzam!, whole grain dinner rolls, whole wheat bread and whole grain/reduced sugar cereals.

Introduced earlier this year, Pizzam! is a white whole wheat pizza crust. It is a highly nutritious, top quality crust that contains ingredients such as flax seed, a source of heart-healthy omega-3 fatty acids, as well as olive oil. The USDA requires foods that contain zero trans fats per serving, which has been met with the use of olive oil and flax seed. The pizza is also leavened with natural yeast and without the use of chemicals, high fructose corn syrup, artificial flavors or colors.

To lower sodium intake, Chartwells is continuing to work with food manufacturers to reformulate food products including lower sodium sauces and spreads. Chartwells chefs and registered dietitians continually create new recipes that use nonsalt seasonings and herbs to replace and reduce salt, says Ms Patterson.

To help reduce students’ intake of fats, Chartwells only serves food products and ingredients that contain zero grams of trans fats per serving and encourages the use of healthy fats and oils. It is important to limit unhealthy fats such as saturated and trans fats because eating too many can lead to heart disease and high cholesterol, as well as other chronic diseases.

Chartwells will also offer menus by age groups. New grade groups for menu planning will be aimed at ensuring students receive age-appropriate portions and nutrients. Changes in specific serving sizes might mean some smaller portion sizes on items like burritos, wraps, sub sandwiches, hot meat sandwiches, calzones/strombolis, and pasta dishes.

Additionally, the new regulations require that half of grains offered at lunch be whole grains. P Pizzam! is made with 51 percent white whole wheat and it is a whole grain food. The new standards require schools to significantly lower sodium in menus, and the pizza crust is 25 percent lower in sodium than traditional crust. More importantly, according to Chartwells, “it still tastes great according to our student customers.”

It is an exciting time in school nutrition, says Ms Patterson, as kid-favorite foods are made over into nutrient-rich offerings that will supply students with optimal nutrition to fuel them for peak performance.

Back To School Tips To Get Your Kids To Read More

The start of a new school year is a great time to emphasize the importance of reading at home. Solid readers perform better in school and in the workplace, have a healthy self-image, and become lifelong learners.

Research shows 45 percent of children ages 3 to 5 are not read to daily, and this lack of literature can take a negative toll on school performance. Luckily, there are many things parents can do to make kids passionate readers.

“Reading stimulates children’s imagination and expands their understanding of the world,” says actress Kate Beckinsale, who is teaming with The Nestlé Share the Joy of Reading Program to raise awareness about the importance of children’s literacy and support the work of Reading Is Fundamental (RIF), the largest children’s literacy nonprofit in the United States.

If you are looking to make reading a bigger part of your children’s lives this school year, here are some great tips to get them motivated.

Start young. Reading aloud to children at an early age is the most effective way to help them attain critical language and communication skills and instill great habits.

Take advantage of free online tools and resources that help make reading an engaging, shared experience for parents and kids. For example, RIF’s “Leading to Reading” website contains activities for children ages birth to 5. Visit www.rif.org/kids/leadingtoreading for more information.

Variety is the spice of life. Be sure your house contains plenty of books to choose from on a variety of topics.

Launch a children’s book club with other parents. Take turns hosting your children’s friends for snacks and a lively discussion on the book of the month.

Kids love getting mail. Subscribe to children’s magazines so they will have something fun and beneficial to look forward to each month.

Make sure children have their very own library cards and become frequent patrons at your local library.

Be it the morning paper or your favorite novel, set an example by making reading a daily habit for yourself.

Many literacy programs supporting underserved communities are currently experiencing federal funding cutbacks, but there are ways to help continue support for the programs.

Almost a quarter of public school fourth graders score below basic levels on reading exams, according to National Assessment of Educational Progress. Take steps this school year will help your children and others to hone this basic tool for success.

Parent Group Provides Support For Growing NICE Initiative

BY STEVE BONANNO

As the Newtown International Center for Education (NICE) initiative continued to grow during the 2011-12 academic year, another organization sprouted to help the program’s cause.

NICE Parent Community Organization (NICE PCO) was announced as a permanent group within the school district in February.

According to the group, NICE PCO provides support and celebrates all international programs currently associated with Newtown schools: Newtown host families; the student ambassador program; professional development experiences for Newtown educators; program development in international communities; educational benefits of real world experiences; international perspectives; the importance of language acquisition; global literacy; technology literacy; and new families to NICE PCO.

When NICE PCO was established, the organization planned to grow a base of enthusiastic international-minded parents and community members to provide a unified voice, support schoolwide and community events through direct or indirect participation, provide scholarships to expand participation to more students/teachers, and encourage outside community members to share their expertise. The organization also planned to identify or make available real world professional development opportunities for teachers, facilitate the depth and breadth of programs to all schools by assisting in the creation or implementation of opportunities, and expand corporate and university partnerships to provide career opportunities for Newtown’s students and NICE members.

Since its inception, the group has certainly achieved some of its many goals.

Members of NICE PCO met at Newtown High School for a meeting on July 16. In attendance were Lisa Berger, Desiree Galassi, Po Murray, and Carol Wakeman, all of whom are dedicated parents and volunteers. Newtown High School Assistant Principal and NICE Coordinator Jason Hiruo was also in attendance.

The group discussed its involvement in the planned Newtown Cultural Arts Commission art festival, which will be held September 15 and 16. NICE PCO was invited to have a tent at the art fair, where its members plan to have cultural and language workshops for all ages. They also hope to potentially have a food demo involving sushi.

NICE is fairly new, having originated only four years ago, but, as Mr Hiruo said, “it is growing in leaps and bounds.”

The goal of NICE is to bring international education to the community and create a better learning environment for students.

Mr Hiruo explained the three main ideas of the group. The first is student learning, which is implemented through after school and weekend learning workshops for students. The second is community outreach, which teaches parents and community members. The third is professional development and district support, which means a better understanding for teachers.

The reasoning for this, explained Ms Berger, is to create more globally aware and college ready graduates. It is also to help bridge the education system with the community.

“Successful students translates to success for the district, which translates to success for the town,” said Ms Galassi.

NICE PCO also provides support to families who have volunteered to host visiting dignitaries and teachers. Among many other endeavors, the volunteer group helps look for potential host families to host teachers, students, and visiting dignitaries during the school year.

NICE PCO has no town budget support and must rely on grants, fundraising, and donations. The group is currently looking for cooperate sponsors and is applying for 501(c)(3) status, which would allow donations to be tax deductible.

Volunteering is not restricted to teachers and parents of students. All members of the community are welcome to volunteer to help NICE PCO. In fact, as part of its goal to make sure the community feels a part of the NICE program, NICE PCO members strongly encourage everyone’s participation.

Through NICE, the high school has relations with two sister schools in China, one in Japan, one in France, and NICE is working on forming a relationship with a school in Spain.

Through these relationships students and teachers have had the opportunity to visit foreign countries, at their own expense. The group is working on getting scholarships for students in financial need that would like to take advantage of these travel opportunities. It has already received its first scholarship to send a student to China this past year.

NICE PCO members will also be marching in the Labor Day parade and invite members of the community to walk with them and show their support of the group. People walking in the event are also encouraged to dress in an ethnic costume.

NICE PCO is still looking for financial support and volunteers. To find out how to get involved, visit the website nicepc.org.

“We couldn’t function without the help of the community,” said Mr Hiruo.

Get The Whole Family Organized At Back-To-School Time

Back-to-school season is the ideal time for families to reestablish routines and get organized — both at home and on the go. Before hitting the stores for supplies, take time to plan ahead with shopping lists that meet both the children’s and the family’s needs. There are some tips to help get a fresh start on the academic year ahead.

Save

If you have more than one child, or want to stock up for the year, save on items like glue sticks, notebooks, and writing utensils by taking advantage of sales and purchasing value packs, which are easy to find at back-to-school time. For better deals on items like tissues and sanitizing wipes, hold off until also buying products for the home at a warehouse club or with coupons.

Teach Organization

Teach children the importance of starting the day organized. One way to simplify the morning shuffle is by assigning a color to each child for easy identification of binders, backpacks, and pencil pouches. Assign colors before shopping to prepare for easier in-aisle decisions. Another option is to use color-coded stickers and labels to maintain consistency.

Synchronize Schedules

The school year often brings additional commitments for families. Creating a “mission control” in a central location in the home will improve communication and ease the stress of time management.

Look for calendars with high functionality like meal planners, “look-ahead” features, magnetic backings and repositionable peel-and-stick adhesives. Don’t forget to include a white board or cork board where notes can be left for one another.

Student planners are crucial to help your children stay on top of due dates, keep their own commitments, and operate on the same schedule as the rest of the family.

Vow to spend time on a weekly basis reviewing and synching calendars and discussing the week ahead.

Manage Papers

With each new school year comes an overwhelming amount of handouts, reminders, permission slips, and medical forms. Parents and children all benefit from a paper management system. Use bins, expanding files, and binder dividers with “reminder” flags to keep track of priorities. Flag items needing immediate attention — whether it is homework or paperwork.

If your children have busy schedules, make it easier for them to work on the go. Opt for binders with writing surfaces, internal storage pockets for loose paper and places to stash pens and pencils. And you can do the same. Consider using binders and expanding files in the car to create a place for last-minute notes, papers, and storage.

With a little planning and creativity, the whole family can prepare to stay organized throughout the school year.

Newtown Prevention Council: Working To Keep Newtown Safe & Substance Free

Established in 1986, Newtown Prevention Council has spearheaded many efforts to help keep Newtown safe and substance free.

The council is made up of many active groups including the police department, the First Selectman, Newtown Schools, Newtown Youth & Family Services, Newtown Health Department, Newtown Parks & Recreation, Newtown Visiting Nurses Association, Newtown Parent Connection, C.H. Booth Library, religious organizations, parents, and many others.

Through September, along Route 25, residents will see three billboards sponsored by NPC. These billboard messages are: Family Day: A Day to Eat Dinner with Your Children, celebrating a national effort which takes place every year (and returning this year on September 24); Social Hosting, a message about parent responsibility regarding serving youth alcohol in the home and its legal ramifications; and Above the Influence, encouraging the youth of Newtown — and all passersby — to avoid illegal substance abuse and to help other youth who may need it. These messages are all environmental efforts to keep all Newtown families safe and substance free.

Planning After-School Activities For Your Kids

Fun and learning can extend beyond the classroom. From music and the arts to organized sports, after-school activities can help kids stay active and make lifelong friends. Here are some tips to keep kids active and engaged during the afternoon:

Sign up early. Many programs fill up fast. Be sure to sign your kids up for programs as soon as possible to ensure their enrollment.

Listen to your kids. As much as you would like your child to participate in certain activities, do not push too hard. Let them explore all their options to find activities they actually enjoy doing.

Make scheduling convenient. If your child is active, you will be too. Plan activities close to home or school to limit time spent in the car.

Whether you're setting up play dates, forming a time-saving carpool, or heading up the Parent Teacher Association, calling cards from an online stationery store like Minted.com is a unique way to make an impression, and share your contact information quickly with teachers, coaches, and other parents.

Go informal. When the weather is nice, consider organizing an impromptu neighborhood bike ride or soccer game. If your child is artistically inclined, invite his or her friends over for craft time.

Encourage academic interests. At-home supplies can inspire your child to get excited about learning. A science kit, for example, can be found at any hobby store and will augment lesson plans with fun hands-on experiments. Personalized journals for kids will encourage your young writer to put pen to paper and compose stories or essays.

Do not overschedule. As with everything great in life, moderation is key. With rich, full school days, homework and after-school activities, do not forget to give your kids time to unwind.

With the right after-school programming, you will be sure to keep your kids safe, active and happy, long after the bell rings.

New Teacher Evaluation Plan To Be Piloted This School Year

BY ELIZA HALLABECK

A new Teacher Professional Growth Plan will be implemented this school year, and Superintendent of Schools Janet Robinson said the new format to evaluate teacher performance was created by a task force comprising administrators and representatives from each school.

As a state Board of Education team looked into how teachers are evaluated, the team in Newtown did the same. The state's new teacher evaluation plan was finalized on June 27, and Dr Robinson said with Newtown's new Teacher Professional Growth Plan, the district is aligned to fulfill the recommendations within the state's plan.

Dr Robinson explained the state's new plan will evaluate teachers based on traditional observations by administrators; surveys of peers, parents, and students; and nearly half of the evaluation will focus on student achievement. Another aspect of the state's plan to evaluate teachers will mark how much a teacher contributes to the school and district growth, according to Dr Robinson.

Newtown was not one of the town's selected to implement the state's new plan for the coming school year. Dr Robinson said this year, Newtown's new plan will be piloted, and it will work well with the state's plan once that is instated for the 2013-14 school year.

"We really researched this in depth," said Dr Robinson.

Last school year, each school piloted part of Newtown's plan, said Dr Robinson.

The largest difference in the town's plan as compared to the state's plan, Dr Robinson said, is Newtown's plan does not incorporate student achievement. Dr Robinson said this was done on purpose, because more than half of the teachers in the district do not teach in areas that can be evaluated on student achievement, using standardized tests, as the state's plan proposes.

"What we have to do now is find ways we are going to measure student growth for everyone of those areas," said the superintendent.

Dr Robinson said she considers the work Newtown has done on creating its Teacher Professional Growth Plan has placed the town ahead of the state's progress.

This next school year, each school in the district will pilot the entire Teacher Professional Growth Plan, Dr Robinson said. The evaluations will not be used this first year, because it is a pilot. Dr Robinson said the evaluations will be used the following year. When the state imposes its new plan, Dr Robinson said the changes will be minimal for Newtown.

With surveys, more administrator observations of teachers each school year, and the eventual connection between student scores and the teacher evaluations, Dr Robinson said, "This is extremely time-consuming for administrators."

Even with the extra work, at a time Dr Robinson said there is limited monetary support, the superintendent said the teacher evaluation process needed improvement.

The new Teacher Professional Growth Plan and the state's new teacher evaluation plan, Dr Robinson said, shows how many facets there are to a teacher's job.

Dr Robinson shared some worries about both the states and the town plans. She said she hopes teachers will not worry about having to bring students to a level where they can make test scores on standardized tests where they avoid teaching students who may not score well. With the country's emphasis on standardized tests, Dr Robinson said she saw no way around using them to help monitor a teacher's growth.

Kids Perform Better In School When Parents Get Involved

Children spend five times as much time outside the classroom as they do in school. With all this time away from teachers, it is important for parents to support their children's learning.

In fact, children whose parents are involved with them in family literacy activities score ten points higher on standardized reading tests, according to the National Center for Family Literacy (NCFL).

"Learning can happen anywhere and at any time," advises Emily Kirkpatrick, vice president of NCFL. "Go beyond homework help and find learning moments in everyday life that fit in with your schedule."

Here are some tips for taking a more active role in your child's education:

With some preparation on your part, you can be a better resource for your child. Make sure that you, and those who spend time with your child, are well equipped to support learning.

Turn a household shopping trip into a fun chance to do math. Take a walk outside to discuss nature or the community. Make a lesson plan out of the world around you.

Develop a partnership with your child's teachers. Talk with them about homework and be sure you understand what is expected.

Some children need and want time to play when they get home, while others may want to get homework out of the way first thing. Set a schedule for your child that works for him or her, and make it a routine. Just be sure that your expectations are clear.

Reinforce the idea that homework is not punishment, but a chance to practice new skills. You can help make it fun by rewarding progress.

Ask your children thought-provoking questions, like what they wonder about. For inspiration you can turn to free online resources that emphasize fun in learning, such as www.Wonderopolis.org.

Help set a timeline so that school assignments are not left until the last minute. Older children with assignments that will take several days or weeks to complete may need your help learning to manage their time.

Checking to be sure assignments are complete is great, but do not forget it is your child's assignment, not yours. Do not do homework for your child.

Read to your children or with them every night. Not only is this an enjoyable way to spend time together, it will benefit the child and help instill a love of learning.

By getting more involved, you can help your children make this school year their most successful one yet.

OVERVIEW OF SCHOOL BUS RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR NEWTOWN BUS ROUTES

The 2012-13 school bus routes for the Newtown Public/Private Schools are listed under the school that the students will be attending. According to All-StarTransportation, routes have been reconfigured so that Reed Intermediate School and St Rose of Lima School students will ride together. Hawley School is moving to the third tier. The reconfiguration allows all four elementary schools to be on the same schedule. According to All-StarTransportation, larger buses also allow route consolidation, which resulted in four fewer buses. The majority of students are assigned to the same bus in the morning and in the afternoon, unless otherwise noted. Should your child require busing to an alternate stop, please fill out the alternate busing request form found on the website and submit it to your child’s school. The school will process the request and then forward it to All-StarTransportation. Alternate busing requests must have been submitted prior to August 17 to ensure implementation for the start of school. Residents are asked to share issues or concerns with their child’s bus stop location by calling All-StarTransportation at 203-426-7613. Parents of kindergarten students attending Newtown public elementary schools should check your school and district websites for information about early dismissal days (for example: conferences and early release days). The primary website is www.newtown.k12.ct.us

Kindergarten Hours
Kindergarten hours for Hawley Elementary School, Head O’ Meadow Elementary School, Middle Gate Elementary School, and Sandy Hook Elementary School are 9:05 am to 11:56 am for the morning kindergarten program, and 12:46 pm to 3:37 pm for the afternoon kindergarten program.
Parents and students are asked to review this information in preparation for the first day of school, August 28, 2012.

Planned Early Dismissal
Newtown High School	12:02 pm
Newtown Middle School	12:02 pm
Reed Intermediate School	12:49 pm
Hawley, Head O’ Meadow, Middle Gate, and Sandy Hook Elementary Schools	1:37 pm
St Rose of Lima	12:50 pm
Fraser Woods Montessori School	1:00 pm
Housatonic Valley Waldorf School	1:00 pm

The emergency dismissal schedule has no afternoon kindergarten session. The morning kindergarten students will be dismissed with the entire school.
Planned early dismissal for elementary schools, including afternoon kindergarten students, will be 1:37 pm.

90-Minute Delayed Opening StartTimes
Newtown High School	8:50 am
Newtown Middle School	8:50 am
Reed Intermediate School	9:35 am
Hawley, Head O’ Meadow, Middle Gate, and Sandy Hook Elementary Schools	10:35 am

With a 90-minute delayed opening there will be no morning kindergarten, and afternoon kindergarten hours for Hawley, Head O’ Meadow, Middle Gate, and Sandy Hook Elementary Schools are 12:46 pm to 3:37 pm

PLEASE NOTE:
The bus schedules are subject to revision due to enrollment changes such as transfers, address changes or additional registrations. Any changes or additions will be posted to the school district’s website and residents are encouraged to check the website, www.newtown.k12.ct.us, often.
The time printed with each bus route is the approximate time the bus will make its first pickup in the morning. Adjustments will be made as necessary and as soon as possible. Please do not worry if a bus is late. It generally takes a few days for kindergarten children and new students to become accustomed to the bus routes and schedules.
Students should be at the appropriate stops ten 10 minutes before the time listed on the bus route. The stop times can vary 10 minutes either way, depending on traffic, weather, and the number of students riding the bus.
Daily Bus Passes will not be allowed. All run changes must be completed and delivered to your child’s school.

Henry Abbott Technical School
In the mornings, students attending Henry AbbottTech in Danbury will ride the high school and middle school routes from their home to Newtown Middle School or Newtown High School. They will then transfer onto a shuttle bus to Henry Abbott Technical School. The shuttle buses will depart NHS and NMS at 7:05 am. Students must transfer at which ever school their bus goes to first. In the afternoons students will ride a MTMTransportation bus from Henry Abbott Technical School back to Newtown High School at approximately 2:40 pm, where they will meet with a second bus and the students will be split for that ride home. Parents may opt to pick up their child at NHS; however, prior arrangements must be made with MTM Transportation (203-426-3974). Students cannot be dropped unless the appropriate arrangements are made.

Nonnewaug High School
In the morning, Nonnewaug High School students will be picked up at their home by MTM Transportation and brought to school. In the afternoon, students will be picked up at Nonnewaug by MTMTransportation and brought back to NHS. At approximately 2:45 pm they will meet with a second bus and students will be split up for the ride home. Parents may opt to pick up their child at NHS; however, prior arrangements must be made with MTM Transportation (203-426-3974) Students cannot be dropped unless the appropriate arrangements are made.

Western Connecticut Academy For International Studies Elementary Magnet School
In the mornings, students attending Western Connecticut Academy For International Studies Elementary Magnet School will ride the Reed Intermediate/St Rose of Lima School routes from their home to Reed, where they will transfer onto a shuttle bus to Western Connecticut Academy For International Studies Elementary Magnet School. The shuttle bus will depart Reed approximately 8:05 am for those parents who would like to drive their child to Reed. In the afternoon a shuttle bus will pick up students at Western Connecticut Academy For International Studies Elementary Magnet School, shuttle them back to Reed at approximately 4 pm.

Frasier Woods Montessori School and Housatonic Valley Waldorf School
Parents must contact All-StarTransportation directly at 203-426-7613 to arrange transportation.

- Transportation Information From All-StarTransportation/ Newtown Public Schools
The primary objective of the school bus transportation system is to provide safe bus transportation for the students of Newtown. Courtesy and positive behavior are essential in achieving this objective. You and your child’s cooperation in adhering to the following rules and regulations are necessary. Please review the following rules and regulations with your child(ren) before the first day of school.
1. The driver of the bus is in full charge of the bus and all students riding therein. This includes assigning seats. This should not be considered punitive, simply an effort to ensure student comfort and safety.
 2. Students must take a seat when they enter the bus and remain seated until their designated stop. They should get on and off the bus only when it is fully stopped, and the driver has acknowledged them.
 3. Reasonable conversation is permitted. No disruptive behavior, bullying, indecent or profane language shall be permitted on the bus.
 4. Conversation with the driver is prohibited while the vehicle is moving.
 5. The use of tobacco, alcohol, or drugs on the bus is prohibited.
 6. Students must not throw paper, hats, snowballs, or other objects in, at or about the bus.
 7. Bus windows shall not be opened without permission from the driver.
 8. Students shall assist in keeping the bus clean and orderly and shall refrain from damaging or abusing the bus, its cushions, padding or other equipment.
 9. Students who damage or deface any bus or any equipment on any bus shall be liable for such damage. If a student is found to have damaged the bus, full restitution for the repair will be expected from their parent or guardian.
 10. The emergency door is to be kept free and available at all times.
 11. Upon entering or leaving the bus, students shall avoid crowding or in any way disturbing others.
 12. Students will not be allowed to cross the street after exiting from the bus. For the student’s safety, no student shall climb over or around the forward safety arm.
 13. In the event a student drops personal items, step away from the bus, make eye contact with the driver and wait for directions on how to reclaim items. DO NOT attempt to get them on their own!
 14. For the safety of all students, no eating or drinking is allowed while on the bus. The high prevalence of food allergies requires this action to prevent possible adverse reactions.

PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION: Any student found in violation of these regulations may lose his or her bus privileges, either temporarily or permanently. The school principal may suspend from school or apply other disciplinary action as deemed proper by the administration. To ensure proper discipline on the buses, vehicles are now equipped with two audio capable video cameras.

- SAFETY NOTES FOR PARENTS:
1. Parents are not allowed to board school buses without prior approval from All-Star Transportation.
 2. If your child misses the bus, drive him/her to school. Do not follow the bus and have your child run alongside the bus to board it. This is extremely dangerous and is prohibited.
 3. When buses are parked with their lights activated, and they are loading or unloading students, it is illegal for an automobile or any other vehicle to pass through their lights. This includes buses parked and loading or unloading both on the road, any public or private parking lot, and in the school yard. Any vehicles observed passing through the flashing lights of any bus will be reported directly to the Newtown Police Department, Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles, Newtown Board of Education and will be subject to a $450 fine, under Connecticut State Law, Title 14, and Section 279. The bus driver needs to focus on driving the bus and providing safe transport. If you have any concerns regarding the operation of your child’s school bus, please contact All-Star at 203-304-9778.

THE STOPS LISTED ON THIS WEBSITE, WILL INDICATE THE BUS NUMBER AND NEAREST APPROPRIATE STOP TO YOUR HOME ADDRESS. PLEASE BE SURE TO CHECK BOTH THE AM and PM ROUTES FOR YOUR STUDENT, AS THE BUS NUMBER WILL BE THE SAME FOR BOTH AM and PM ROUTES. Newtown Board of Education Policy #3-701;

- A. On behalf of the Board of Education, the Superintendent of Schools, or designee, will establish bus routes and assign buses to such routes. Every effort will be made to equalize time and mileage assignments for the various buses.
- B. Bus Stops — It shall be understood that it is not the intent of the Board of Education to transport every child from his/her door to school. Bus stops shall be established by the superintendent, or designee, on the various routes, at appropriate points. Bus stops will be reviewed annually and changes made as required by changes in conditions.
- C. Limits of Transportation — The maximum walking distance from a pupil’s property entrance way to the bus pickup point or to school is as follows: Grades K–8, 1 mile; Grades 9–12, 1½ miles. Exceptions to the walking distance limits to a school or a designated school bus pickup point will be considered under the following conditions: (1) physical disability limitations, (2) unusual conditions or hazards along walking location to designated bus stop.

Newtown Centre of Classical Ballet

Jennifer Johnston, Artistic Director

Classical Ballet Training
Vaganova Method

www.nccballet.com

Students at NCCB are provided with an artistic environment in which they can expand their creativity through the structure of Ms Johnston's high level of instruction in the world-renown Vaganova Method. Students not only acquire strength, precision and the ability to dance with their whole body in a more expressive range, they learn to tune their ears to music, develop poise and self-confidence that carries over into all aspects of their lives. Students are provided with individual attention and acquire techniques and skills to reach their full potential, including professional careers. Ms Johnston choreographs full length ballets for the annual Spring Performance which students mentor in a pre-professional atmosphere. Vaganova syllabus begins at Pre-Ballet, Beginner, Intermediate and Advanced levels. Additional classes offered are Creative Movement (3 & 4), Repertoire, Pointe and Adult.

Ms Johnston studied with and assisted Marsha Ismailoff Mark who mentored under ballet masters George Volodine and George Balanchine. She obtained her Vaganova Certification at the School of the Performing Arts through Irina Kolpakova and Janina Cunova. She also studied with and assisted Shamil Yagudin, master teacher of the Bolshoi Ballet for over fifteen years and was awarded a full scholarship to the Alvin Ailey American Dance Center in NYC in 1996. Ms Johnston is certified through A Very Special Arts to teach children with special needs and has been Associate Choreographer for the Danbury Music Centre's Nutcracker since 2005. Since 2001, Ms Johnston has choreographed the following ballets for her Spring Performances: Flower Festival, Gypsy Princess, Four Seasons, Les Syphyides, Cinderella, Etudes and The Toy Shop, adaptation of Coppelia.

A lifelong resident of Newtown, Ms Johnston has been involved in community activities that promote the arts. In 2002, she presented a Proposal for the Arts to the Ad Hoc Fairfield Hills Master Plan Committee and served as chairperson of Ad Hoc Cultural Arts Study Committee. Ms Johnston has served as chairperson of the Newtown Cultural Arts Commission since 2007. She was Olio Director for Tableaux Vivants; and has choreographed variations for St Rose Church Concerts; Congregational Church's Noah's Ark and Stray Kats Theatre Company's Broadway Bound program and numerous educational dance programs, performances and lectures with the Malenkee Repertoire Ballet Company. NCCB's studio is on the 2nd floor of the United Fire Company of Botsford, 315 Main Street. Brochures are available. Classes commence on September 12.

The Malenkee Ballet

is the official ballet company of NCCB. Company dancers perform in various public and private forums with the goal of introducing the community to the "wonderful world of ballet" and all that it encompasses.

Malenkee is available for lectures, educational and performance programs for schools, Girl Scouts, Brownie troops, libraries, nursing and assisted living facilities. Repertoire includes Peter and the Wolf, Etudes, Circus and The Nutcracker Suite.

For the past eleven years Ms Johnston has choreographed and produced The Nutcracker Suite at Edmond Town Hall Theatre for the Newtown Family Youth Services Holiday Festival.

KidsFit of Newtown

Sponsored by Newtown Parks & Recreation

Over 15 Yrs Of Providing Creative Movement Classes

Our passion is creating fun educational programs to help develop the physical and mental skills of children ages 2-4

A Place to Play, Learn
Make Friends!

WE INVITE YOU TO REGISTER FOR OUR FALL PROGRAM

MOTHERS MORNING OUT
8 Weeks Beginning
Wed., Sept 19 and Fri., Sept 21

Our Pre-school Readiness Program is designed for your child to experience the magic of learning, cooperative play and social interaction with other children in hopes to prepare them for their first preschool experience. Children must turn 2 by the start of the program; they DO NOT need to be potty trained.

Host an Exchange Student Today!

(for 3, 5 or 10 months)

Camilla from Italy, 16 yrs.
Enjoys dancing, playing the piano and swimming. Camilla looks forward to cooking with her American host family.

Make a lifelong friend from abroad.

Enrich your family with another culture. Now you can host a high school exchange student (girl or boy) from France, Germany, Scandinavia, Spain, Australia, Japan, Brazil, Italy or other countries. Single parents, as well as couples with or without children, may host. Contact us ASAP for more information or to select your student.

Daniel from Denmark, 17 yrs.
Loves skiing, playing soccer and watching American movies. Daniel hopes to learn to play football and live as a real American.

KINDERGARTEN ROUTES WILL BE AVAILABLE ONLINE

Following the Board of Education’s decision during a special meeting held on Wednesday, July 18, to not institute full-day kindergarten for the 2012-13 school year, All-Star Transportation announced its kindergarten routes for the 2012-13 school year will be posted online by August 16, after this special section of The Newtown Bee went to press. To see those routes, go to www.newtown.k12.ct.us.

We Can Even Make Him Smile :)

Dental Associates of Connecticut
Where our family cares for yours

Children Friendly
Dental Services.

He's not a big fan of dentists and he's not afraid to show it. Wouldn't it be nice if there was a place where kids could get the extra attention they need? At Dental Associates of Connecticut, we know how to make kids smile.

For comprehensive dental care for your entire family, you can trust the experience and compassion of Dental Associates of Connecticut. New patients are always welcome.
